MIGRATION TO BE AIDED

Workers In Non Essential
Effort Soon May Take
Real War Jobs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Manpower officials today hailed President Roosevelt's statement urging seniority guarantees for prospective war workers as a valuable aid in breaking a major log-jam that has retarded effective mobilization of the nation's labor force.

It was considered probable that the war manpower commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, would follow through quickly with a formal announcement on the matter in order to speed up the transfer of skilled workers from non-essential industries to war plants.

Other developments on the manpower front were:

1. OWI reported that man-days of idleness due to strikes in all industry have dropped during a year or war to the lowest level of the last five years.

2. A bureau of Selective Service was created within the WMC with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, as its head.

Labor leaders have long demanded that employees who transfer to a war job, often in another city or another state, be guaranteed the privilege of returning to their peace-time work after the war without loss of the seniority rights they have accumulated over a period of years.

President Roosevelt publicly endorsed the proposal, asserting that he believed the same protection should be accorded war workers as is given members of the armed forces under provisions of the Selective Service act.

Taking a job in war industry is making "a direct contribution"

BRAGGING WIFE DUCKS SHOTS OF ANGRY SPOUSE

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Dec. 9.—Frank Nachtrieb, 34, was held in jail today on a charge of firing four shots at his wife, Hazel, because, the prisoner explained, she had "high-tailed" him after getting a promotion in the same arsenal machine gun plant where he was employed.

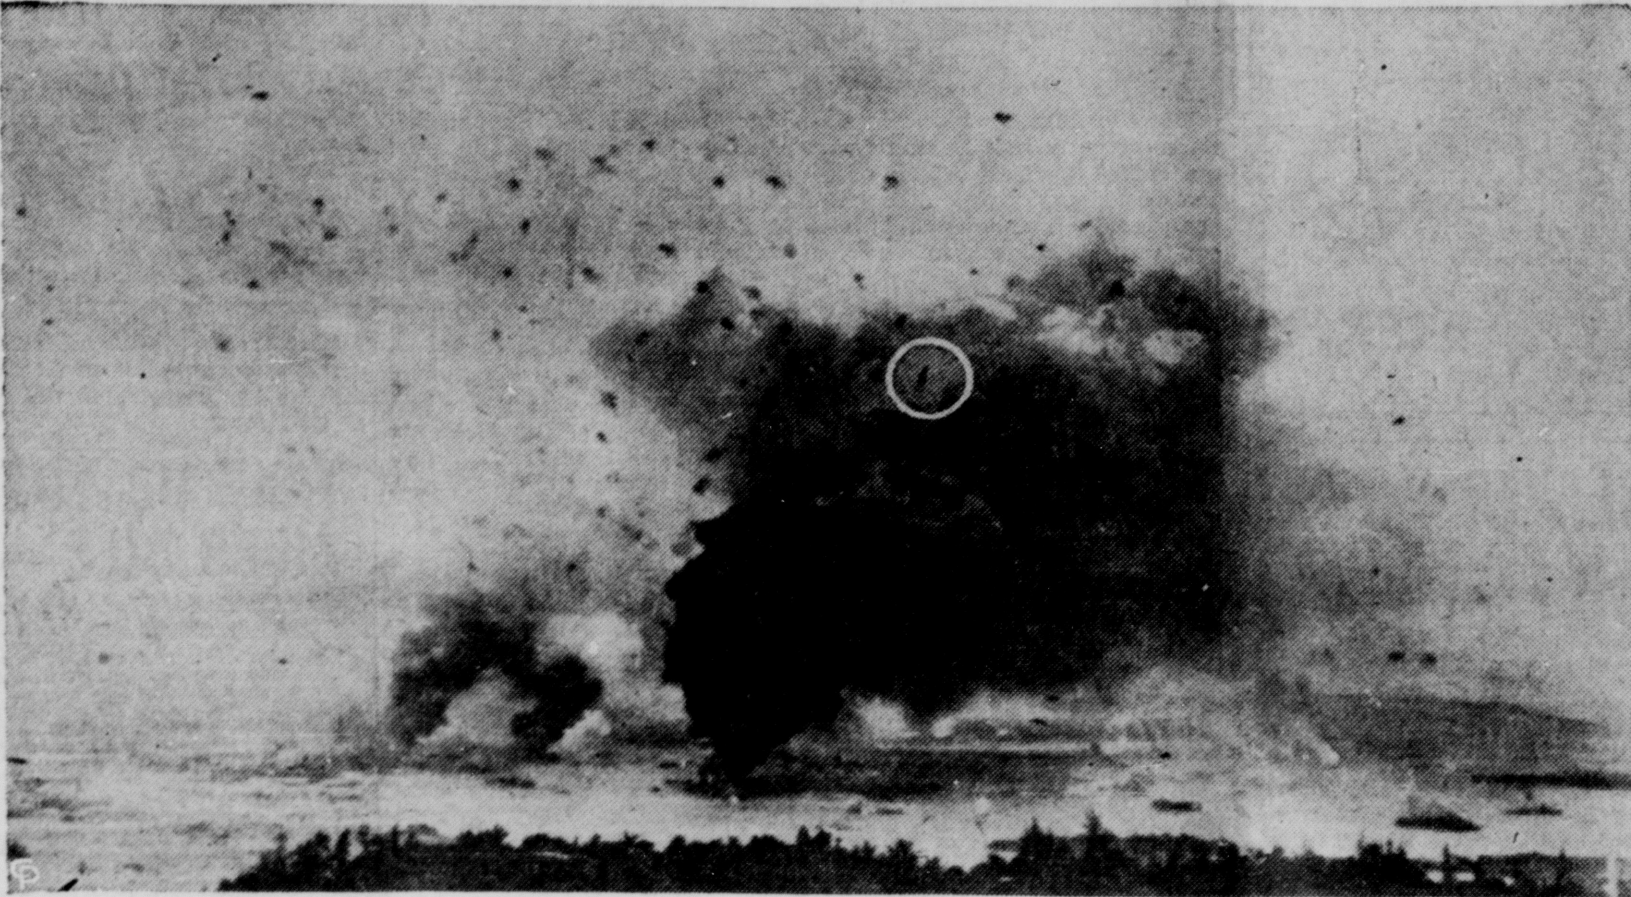

About 200 workers in the department where Mrs. Nachtrieb recently had been made a forewoman witnessed the wild shooting. Several of them beat and overpowered the enraged Nachtrieb. Mrs. Nachtrieb was not hit, but one of the bullets passed through her clothing.

PANORAMA OF PEARL HARBOR ATTACK JUST RELEASED BY NAVY

This panoramic view of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, has just been released by the United States Navy. Taken at the height of the attack, it shows attacking enemy planes and the plumes of smoke billowing from crippled American warships. The huge cloud of smoke, center, is rising from the U. S. S. Arizona, only battleship sunk which cannot be put back into service.

Financial Aid From Chest
Can Not Be Accepted,

Community Chest trustees were informed Wednesday by the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health association, sponsors of the annual Christmas seal campaign, that it cannot accept any financial assistance from the Chest. A letter written by George D. McDowell, president of the association, was received by Mack D. Parrett, secretary of the Community Chest.

The Chest trustees offered two weeks ago to finance the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health association's campaign, declaring that sufficient money had been collected in the Chest campaign and has been set aside to handle all the association's budgetary requirements during the next 12 months. The amount sought by the association in its campaign is $1,700.

The communication sent to the Community Chest quoted a letter received from Dr. Robert G. Patterson, executive secretary of the Ohio Public Health association, which stated there is nothing to be done except to "make every effort to conduct a successful seal sale."

The seal campaign now under way and scheduled to continue until Christmas is the thirty-sixth conducted by the Pickaway county organization.

GAS ADEQUACY TESTS RESULT IN YES AND NO

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 9.—Mayor Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City, who is one of the world's most famous speed drivers, disclosed today results of an experiment he made to test the government's estimate of four gallons of gas to take the average motorist 60 miles.

His answer was "yes and no." He used an ordinary model automobile for his experiment.

On the Bonneville Salt Flats at speeds under 35 miles an hour he was able to coax as much as 27 miles to the gallon from the car. Here the answer was "yes." The government's estimate was more than ample.

But in Salt Lake City traffic under normal driving conditions, and with frequent starts and stops, the best he could do was only 10 miles to the gallon. Here the answer was "no."

Japs Purposely Bomb New Guinea Hospitals

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 9.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur charged today that the Japanese had deliberately bombed allied field hospitals in New Guinea, causing the death or injury of 97 persons.

"The enemy's air units," he said, "have violated the laws of war by repeated attacks on allied hospital installations, killing doctors, medical personnel and patients."

The death toll was placed at 36 and those injured at 61. Three war correspondents were among the injured.

Gen. MacArthur cited three separate instances in which both Australian and American field hospitals and ambulances were attacked despite the fact they were conspicuously identified.

The first took place November 27 when an Australian field ambulance unit in the Soputa area and an American regimental dressing station were bombed, killing 29 and wounding 31. On December 2 a second American field hospital in the Buna area was bombed, but there was no damage. But on December 7 one unit was bombed twice from low altitude. The Jap dive-bombers killed seven and wounded 30.

The waitress admitted to U. S. Commissioner J. Paul Geoghegan, who ordered her held in default of $10,000 bond following her preliminary arraignment, that she had tried to foist the child on another man as "our child." She reiterated her previous claim that she had abducted the baby because she "felt in love with him."

The man who was led to believe the kidnapped infant was his and who is held at Huntington, W. Va., on similar charges of kidnapping is Carl Chapman, who, Mrs. Cremins said, helped her take young Danny away. He and three other close friends or relatives of Mrs. Cremins who are being held in conjunction with the abduction may be arraigned before a commissioner at Huntington.

Danny was located in Portsmouth Saturday, and is now recovering in a hospital there from the effects of a cold. His mother and two nuns from St. Ann's are attending him.

Thirty-seven of 39 patients in the women's wing of the Seaciff Mental Hospital near Dunedin, New Zealand, were dead today as a result of fire which destroyed the building Tuesday. All of the victims died of suffocation.

NELSON DUNLAP DIES AT HOME

Civil War Veteran, Widely Known Citizen, Victim
Of Pneumonia

Nelson J. Dunlap, one of the most prominent residents of southern Pickaway and northern Ross county for many years and father of Renick W. Dunlap, Pickaway township, died Wednesday at 10 a. m. at his home in Kingston. Pneumonia which developed Monday caused Mr. Dunlap's death.

The venerable Civil War veteran would have been 100 years old had he lived until next May 30. He was born in Ross county May 30, 1843, a son of John and Mary Minear Dunlap, Scioto valley pioneers.

Mr. Dunlap had been in failing health for the last several weeks, but his condition did not become critical until Monday.

With his death the Ross county post of the Grand Army of the Republic passes out of existence. He was Ross county's last veteran of the Civil War. Mr. Dunlap volunteered in the United States navy in 1863. He returned to his home county in 1868. He had engaged in farming prior to entering service, and after the war operated his 1,000 acre farm property in Pickaway township and in Ross county. He removed to Kingston in 1905, and although not an active farmer after that time seldomly missed a day being on the farm.

Mr. Dunlap's favorite diversion in his late years was horseback riding, spending much of his time in the saddle until a few years ago after his automobile was struck by a train in Kingston and he suffered some injuries. He was a familiar figure for years riding over his farm.

Mr. Dunlap was active in politics the greater part of his life, being a wheelhorse of the Republican party. He held numerous local offices.

Admiral Says Losses Few

Of Operation

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP OF THE ATLANTIC FLEET, (Delayed)—Sailors and soldiers participating in the epochal American occupation of Northwest Africa received a publicly pronounced, "well done!" today from Admiral Royal E. Ingersoll, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet.

Marking one of the few times he has permitted a newspaper correspondent to quote him, Admiral Ingersoll asserted flatly that the Moroccan expedition "was carried out successfully."

The curtain of conservatism, which usually cloaks the Admiral's conversations concerning the war, was lifted in his particular praise of the convoy work and troop landings involved in the African campaign. He inferred that they were the most successful operations of their kind in military history.

Gigantic Convoy

He said that almost 1,000 ships, of every type, participated in the daring, dangerous ocean crossing from the United States to Morocco.

The 3,000-mile trip, through the hunting grounds of axis submarines, was claimed by the mass landing of combat troops and the naval battle off Casablanca where Atlantic fleet units defeated a hostile French naval force.

Admiral Ingersoll pointed out: "We can be pleased that all of the ships reached their destination safely and made such an extraordinary landing."

"Our losses were few in ratio to the number of men engaged in the operation, the importance of the operation and its ultimate results."

Navy Praised

Without assuming any of the credit that is his for the early planning and preparations that made the vast fleet maneuver possible, Admiral Ingersoll went on to say that officers and men in the ships did their duty in the best naval tradition.

He paid especial tribute to the work of Vice Admiral Henry Kent Hewitt who commanded the Hurdle Amphibious force. Admiral Hewitt was elevated from rear to

GESTAPO CHIEF GETS JAIL TERM, LONDON HEARS

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Heinrich Himmler, feared Nazi gestapo chief, was arrested by high German army authorities recently and held in custody for five days, according to a dispatch today to the London Daily Mirror from the German frontier.

The dispatch said the arrest was "symbolic" and probably was intended as a warning to Himmler "not to overshoot the mark" in his repressive activities.

According to persons familiar with developments within Germany, the dispatch added, the Reichswehr took this means of serving notice on Himmler and other Nazi officials that the army intends to be the rallying point for the German people rather than the Nazi-organized SS corps.

No one knows who gave the order for the arrest, but many thought it was probably Hermann Goering, Reichsmarshal and implacable foe of Himmler. Others thought that Hitler himself may have given the word for the arrest of his ambitious henchman.

The incident was said to have occurred just before Himmler's recent visit to Italy.

Set Speed Mark

ARMY Lieutenants Harold Comstock, 22 (top) of Fresno, Cal., and Roger Dyar, 22 (bottom) of Lowell, O., were revealed to have dived the new Republic P-47 Thunderbolt pursuit planes at the incredible speed of 725 miles per hour, which is faster than the speed of sound in rarefied air and surpasses the velocity of a bullet fired from a .45 caliber revolver. Neither pilot reported any "blackout" of vision but admitted that pulling out of the 12 mile per minute speed does "curl your stomach."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—U. S. dive bombers and torpedo planes have broken up another enemy attempt to rush reinforcements into the Southern Solomons, and in an attack 150 miles off Guadalcanal sank one Japanese warship and set fire to three others, the navy announced today.

The American striking group plastered two Japanese cruisers with 1,000 pound bombs and scored torpedo hits on two other cruisers or destroyers. The navy did not identify the vessel which was sunk. It was one of the four listed as hit by the American bombs. Three others were sighted in flames the next day.

The navy said the attack took place December 3 when the American planes from Guadalcanal attacked an enemy force of ten cruisers and destroyers which were headed for the island apparently to reinforce the isolated Japanese garrison.

RAF bombers returned to the attack on North Italian industrial centers during the night with its sixth attack on Turin, the air ministry reported today, dropping big two-ton block busters on the already badly battered city. Turin was last raided on November 28.

The day's war news put emphasis on airpower. Reinforcements of allied aircraft were reported to be turning the tide against the axis in Tunisia, while in the Southwest Pacific allied bombers frustrated another Japanese attempt to reinforce its weary garrison on New Guinea by turning back an enemy flotilla of six destroyers headed for the Papuan coast.

The navy said the attack took place December 3 when the American planes from Guadalcanal attacked an enemy force of ten cruisers and destroyers which were headed for the island apparently to reinforce the isolated Japanese garrison.

By International News Service
RAF bombers returned to the attack on North Italian industrial centers during the night with its sixth attack on Turin, the air ministry reported today, dropping big two-ton blockbusters on the already badly battered city. Turin was last raided on November 28.

Scarcely had the squadrons of Britain's biggest bombers returned to their home fields when squadrons of light bombers and fighters roared across the channel in a constant stream, headed for nearby points on the occupied coast of Europe.

The day's war news put emphasis on airpower. Reinforcements of allied aircraft were reported to be turning the tide against the axis in Tunisia, while in the Southwest Pacific allied bombers frustrated another Japanese attempt to reinforce its weary garrison on New Guinea by turning back an enemy flotilla of six destroyers headed for the Papuan coast.

Russ Drop Germans

In Russia the axis was resorting to use of transport planes to get supplies to encircled troops on the Stalingrad front, but a Soviet communiqué reported 60 shot down in two days' fighting. In the last week the Red air force (Continued on Page Two)

C. H. SPENCER, 72, PUBLISHER, DIES IN CRASH

NEWCOMERTOWN, Dec. 9.—Charles H. Spencer, 72, publisher of the Newark, O., Advocate, a newspaper with which he had been connected for 50 years, was killed instantly today near this city when he lost control of his automobile on icy pavement.

Mr. Spencer's neck was broken and he suffered internally when his automobile slid across Route 21, one-half mile north of here and struck a truck driven by Robert Barrett, 16, of Parkersburg, W. Va.

Mr. Spencer was alone at the time of the accident. He was a member of the Muskingum Conservancy district board and was believed enroute to New Philadelphia to attend a meeting when the accident happened.

He was widely known throughout Ohio newspaper circles.

and Soviet anti-aircraft batteries have destroyed more than 150 Nazi transport planes.

The allies appeared to be overcoming the enemy's air supremacy in North Africa as additional American and RAF fighters and bombers reached the front.

Bombers of the middle east command, flying from Libyan airbases, continued to blast axis-held ports in Tunisia with raids on Bizerte and Gabes.

Germans Halted

With increased air support the allied forces in Tunisia beat off enemy counter-attacks in the Tebourba area, regained some ground and then held firm. A fierce tank battle raged into its third day in the bloody triangle formed by Tebourba, Djedida and Mateur in the strategic valley controlling approaches to the ports of Tunis and Bizerte.

Air activity increased also in the Libyan theater. Allied bombers attacked the Libyan port of Homs, near Tripoli, and raided axis forward landing fields behind the El Aghelia line where the remnants of the German-Italian armies were drawn up for an expected attack by the eighth army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

The Japanese invasion fleet which was turned back before reaching New Guinea was the fifth that has attempted to bring reinforcements to the Buna-Gona area. The leader of the flotilla was set afire by two direct hits, and others in the task force were believed to have been damaged by near-misses.

Allied ground forces beat off a Japanese counter-attack and then continued to mop up scattered pockets of enemy resistance. Our bombers made new attacks on the enemy bases at Lae, New Guinea, and Gasmala, on the southern coast of New Britain Island.

The Soviet armies were moving ahead again after overcoming strong enemy resistance, particularly on the line west of Moscow.

Several additional inhabited localities were recaptured on the central front, and Soviet columns forged ahead in the Stalingrad area despite heavy snows that blanketed the bleak steppes between the Don and Volga.

Within Stalingrad the enemy was driven from a number of fortified positions after artillery smashed more than two score of pillboxes and blockhouses.

German dead in the last 24 hours were listed at nearly 7,000, and the army newspaper Red Star estimated total enemy losses in the last twelve months at approximately eight million men.

ORDER LOOMS FOR SHIFT OF SKILLED MEN

Seniority Guarantee Plea Seen As Spur To Assist Director McNutt

to winning the war," the chief executive said.

Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, director of operations for the war manpower commission, declared that Mr. Roosevelt's statement would "help out a great deal."

"The lack of seniority guarantees has been one of the major stumbling blocks in our efforts to transfer men from non-essential jobs to war industries," he said. "It has prevented very much migration."

War Jobs Refused

WMC Chairman McNutt disclosed recently that 90 percent of the skilled workers, whose occupational questionnaires had been analyzed by manpower officials, had refused appeals to transfer to essential war employment.

"There's a lot of gold there, but we only got 10 percent of it out," he said.

Other factors which have prevented transfers are the absence of uniform state unemployment compensation and health programs, according to labor spokesmen.

WMC officials pointed out however, that national legislation would be needed to iron out these difficulties and such a proposal probably would meet with a storm of opposition in Congress.

A proposal some months ago to provide funds for workers thrown out of employment in the conversion of factories to war work brought a congressional outcry against "federalization" of unemployment compensation. A delegation of state governors descended on the capital to fight the proposal.

Meantime, WMC officials declined to comment on a report drafted by a 14-member labor-management committee urging overhauling of the WMC organization and appointment of Maj. Gen. Hershey as vice chairman. They merely observed that the document was submitted two weeks prior to President Roosevelt's recent executive order giving McNutt broad authority over manpower and transferring selective service to his jurisdiction.

In announcing formation of the WMC selective service bureau, McNutt said the action would "assure close coordination of the twin wings of the commission charged with meeting the needs of war manpower—selective service for filling military requirements and the United States employment service for handling civilian production requirements."

KEROSENE AND FUEL COUPONS BEING SPEEDED

Persons using kerosene and fuel oil in their homes and who have registered at the rationing board office for coupons with which to make purchases were assured Wednesday by rationing officials that their coupons will be mailed to them ahead of the deadline which comes Thursday. No purchases of kerosene or fuel oil may be made after December 10 without coupons issued by the rationing board.

When the rationing office crew started to work Wednesday about 3,000 applications remained to be processed. Volunteer workers and a corps of school students numbering about 20 went to work preparing kerosene and fuel oil coupons for the mail.

More volunteer workers could be used Thursday, the rationing office pointing out that workers do not face the public, the volunteers being assigned to the city council chamber to prepare coupons which have already been applied for.

Rationing officials are urging persons receiving fuel oil and kerosene coupons to be certain to check the dates in which the coupons are usable. Some of the books have been dated for a quarter and some for a year, depending on the amount to be used and on factors set up by OPA. Recipients of books will save the ration board much difficulty if they will take note of the date written on the book. Some of the books are dated October 1, 1942, to January 1, 1943, and others from October 1, 1942, to October 1, 1943.

vice admiral following capitulation of Casablanca.

"Cinclant," as the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet is known in the navy for reasons of brevity, had studied a full report of the battle of Casablanca shortly before he received this correspondence.

He considered it regrettable that the French fleet persisted in its costly battle, but added that hostility of the French navy was not altogether unexpected.

"We were fully aware," he said, "of the French navy's intense loyalty at that time."

Admiral Ingersoll, summarizing his estimate of the West African expedition stated:

"It was the one big task of the year for the Atlantic fleet."

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 9.—Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union proposed today to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard that he call a halt at once to the brewing of beer.

She described the manufacture of beer as "wholesale waste of food products at a time when all the world is on short rations." By the brewers' own figures, she declared, 2,765,269,658 pounds of malt, corn, sugar and syrups, rice and hops are used annually for beer production in the United States.

Persons using kerosene and fuel oil in their homes and who have registered at the rationing board office for coupons with which to make purchases were assured Wednesday by rationing officials that their coupons will be mailed to them ahead of the deadline which comes Thursday. No purchases of kerosene or fuel oil may be made after December 10 without coupons issued by the rationing board.

When the rationing office crew started to work Wednesday about 3,000 applications remained to be processed. Volunteer workers and a corps of school students numbering about 20 went to work preparing kerosene and fuel oil coupons for the mail.

More volunteer workers could be used Thursday, the rationing office pointing out that workers do not face the public, the volunteers being assigned to the city council chamber to prepare coupons which have already been applied for.

Rationing officials are urging persons receiving fuel oil and kerosene coupons to be certain to check the dates in which the coupons are usable. Some of the books have been dated for a quarter and some for a year, depending on the amount to be used and on factors set up by OPA. Recipients of books will save the ration board much difficulty if they will take note of the date written on the book. Some of the books are dated October 1, 1942, to January 1, 1943, and others from October 1, 1942, to October 1, 1943.

"Cinquant," as the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet is known in the navy for reasons of brevity, had studied a full report of the battle of Casablanca shortly before he received this correspondence.

He considered it regrettable that the French fleet persisted in its costly battle, but added that hostility of the French navy was not altogether unexpected.

"We were fully aware," he said, "of the French navy's intense loyalty at that time."

Admiral Ingersoll, summarizing his estimate of the West African expedition stated:

"It was the one big task of the year for the Atlantic fleet."

SCHOOL CHIEFS FROWN ON ODT BUS RULINGS

One And One-Half Mile Walk
By Pupils Criticised
At State Meet

M'DOWELL AT SESSION

County Superintendent In Accord With Educators
Seeking Change

Pickaway county school authorities continued Wednesday to study the school bus transportation situation, maintaining a "hands off" policy concerning any revision in routes or schedules until the Office of Defense Transportation orders such steps taken.

George D. McDowell, Pickaway county superintendent, returned to his office Wednesday after attending an all-day meeting Tuesday in Columbus with educators of 42 other Ohio counties during which a resolution was adopted asking a modification of a federal order requiring pupils living less than one and one-half miles from a main bus route or two miles from school to walk as a means of conserving rubber.

Superintendents and school board members present voted unanimously to ask that the order be changed to read "one-half mile and one mile, respectively."

Mr. McDowell said that no changes are being made in the Pickaway county bus program until definite orders are issued. "We are studying recommendation of the ODT," the director declared.

School men meeting Tuesday said that the small saving in rubber, gasoline and present equipment resultant from these extreme measures will be incommensurate with the great harm which will result from a strict enforcement of this order.

School men said that consequences of the rigid ODT decree would likely be impairment of the educational system, poor health, serious accidents among pupils and disintegration of public morale.

The resolution was signed by G. D. West of Crawford county, D. T. Milk of Marion county and J. D. Blackford of Upper Sandusky.

Some educators were in favor of closing schools if necessary to force modification of the order to adjust bus routes in order to be eligible for rationed gasoline and tires. February 1 is the date for this order to go into effect.

NEED FOR MORE HOGS INCREASES, FARMERS TOLD

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard recently asked farmers to increase next year's Spring pig crop by 10 percent over the crop of last Spring. But since issuing his recommendation, events have moved so rapidly he is now telling farmers that the need for hogs is going to be "even greater than it appeared a few weeks ago."

Lawrence Liston, county representative of the Columbus Production Credit association, says the 10 percent figure does not apply with equal force in all parts of the country, that in some districts the production call will be much higher.

"The secretary," he adds, "has appealed to every farmer no matter where he lives to raise as many hogs as his circumstances will permit and to market the animals 10 pounds heavier than usual."

Liston said directors of the Production Credit association are particularly interested in this situation because many farmers who normally raise only a few hogs are likely to increase the number materially. The local farm credit cooperative will finance all eligible farmers who will need additional feed for their increased number of hogs, additional funds for labor or money to buy more brood sows or feeder pigs.

Speaking of prices, Secretary Wickard said demand is keeping prices of pork and lard up and "will continue to support them for a long time to come during the war and afterward. Of course, we can expect that prices will fall off somewhat during months of heavy marketing, but those seasonal declines are likely to be much smaller than they have been in the past. As I see it, the only chance of a really sizable decline would come during rush periods when farmers tried to market more hogs than packers could handle even though those slumps would be only temporary."

TRUSTEE NAMED

Ben Vause, widely known Harrison township farmer, was named Wednesday by Justice of Peace Elmer Malone of Harrison township as a trustee. The new official, who lives at Gray station, succeeds Russell Reid who has moved to a farm near Columbus.

"SIXTH" TIRES OF COUNTY REACH TOTAL OF 1,013

Pickaway county automobile owners have turned in 1,013 "sixth" tires to Uncle Sam in the government's program planned to pick up tires not considered essential.

Tom Burke of the Railway Express company, which was designated as the collection agency, said that all the tires have been sent to the Thompson-Davey warehouse in Columbus for handling by the government.

Also contributed to the collection were 12 tubes.

The 1,013 tires came from 453 individuals.

The tire collection program continues until December 12, no motorist being permitted a gasoline ration card unless he has turned in all tires he owns above five which are considered necessary.

J. B. CHRISTMAN GIVES BOND AND GAINS FREEDOM

James B. Christman of Scioto township, indicted last week for felonious assault of George F. Reed, also of Scioto township, was released from county jail Wednesday after he provided $200 bond. The bond had originally been fixed at $300 by Judge Meeker Terwilliger but was reduced.

Christman denied pointing a pistol at Reed or trying to strike him with a club when Reed went to the Christman home to recover two roosters which had been bought from him but had not been paid for.

Mrs. Emma King, indicted for shooting at Reed, was released on her own recognizance. She fainted in the sheriff's office after arraignment and was permitted under doctor's orders to go to her home.

TOBACCO GROWERS NEED TO FILE APPLICATIONS

Pickaway county AAA committee gave notice Wednesday to Pickaway county farmers who wish to grow tobacco for the first time in 1943 to get their applications filed.

Wilbur E. Brinker, member of the county committee, said that no applications for 1943 new farm burley allotments will be accepted by the Pickaway county Agricultural Conservation association committee after February 1.

ASHVILLE

The village council in session Monday evening paid bills amounting to $446.69. Transacted no other business. But some time was employed in discussing how better bus service for Ashville could be obtained. The service at present is six buses north and seven south. Every effort by the organized bodies here has been used to obtain this better bus service but with no success to date, Mayor Hines informed us.

The Go Getter 4-H Club of Harrison township, under direction of Charles Eversole at their meeting at Grange Hall Monday evening, received prize money amounting to around $100 and which was awarded the several members for exhibits at the Circleville Junior Fair in October. County Farm Agent F. K. Blair presented the prizes. A program was given which included several interesting lantern slides. Too, a cooperative lunch was served. Incidentally, it is mentioned that this Go Getter Club is among the outstanding ones of the county.

The Pickaway County Farmers Mutual Fire Association held its annual meeting here Monday evening for the forenoon to business transactions and the afternoon to the selection of officers. The present officials were chosen to succeed themselves who are: Albert Worthington, Grove City, president; Ira Fisher, Ashville, vice president; Jesse Baum, Duval, secretary - treasurer. Directors chosen for a three-year period, S. E. Beers, Frank Valentine, Albert Worthington. This was the Association's 39th annual meeting.

The unoccupied Doc. Spindler dwelling near the Council house, didn't remain that way very long. A Philadelphia surgeon connected with the Air Base with the wife, occupy it. The former dwellers there are now located in the new Beatrice Schiff dwelling off near Community Park.

fice serving in similar work here before going to the city. . . . A committee of the local Community Club is busy now making plans to arrange a Christmas treat for the children of the Ashville community. . . . Harry Brown, west side implement dealer, was out trying his horse drawn sleigh the other day while the streets were well covered with snow. Plenty of the kiddies were along to see that all went well. An owner of one resides in Marcy territory and he too was giving many of the youngsters a ride.

More snow last night and the count now, according to the record keepers at headquarters, stands at 8 for the season. First snow was November 29 and this figure fixes the number for the whole snow season. But we'll see how it all comes out about May 1.

ZINC MONEY

THE argument about small coinage seems to be ending in a decision to make steel pennies coated with zinc. It probably doesn't matter much except to numismatists, but there will be natural curiosity about them for a little while. No more copper is available, and the billions of pennies now in circulation may be called in soon and melted down for war use. The zinc-steel penny will serve as well as any other substitute.

The real marvel in this connection may be the fact that there are still going to be pennies. Some alarmists have been so sure of inflation that it almost seemed, for a while, as if there would be no more use in this country for any coin below a nickel. As it looks now, nothing very serious is going to happen to any of our currency.

NEW CARS

RUMOR and discussion continue to toy with the problem of the future automobile. Nearly everybody seems to be wondering what it will be like when the war is over and production is resumed. There is general belief that it will be very different from the present car.

Most guessers foresee a reduction in weight, resulting in a car about half as heavy as the present models. That would make it easier to handle in every way, and would probably double the mileage per gallon. The first cost of the car, too, would naturally be less.

On this basis it is easy to foresee an immense multiplication of new cars when they go into production. New problems may arise in highway traffic and parking. The little bugs may swarm over every available rod of ground in and around cities.

But there's no telling. They might sprout wings and take to the sky, or operate as amphibians, equally at home on the road or in the air. That would be great for the air-minded people. The timid, earth-bound folk wouldn't like it.

NAZIISM IN 1843

NAZIISM is not so new after all. Way back in 1843 Dr. Wappaeus, a noted German geographer, wrote that if his country occupied California and Uruguay, "we could completely Germanize the population within 15 years."

As the population of California, at any rate, has risen somewhat in the last 100 years, the process might take a little longer than Dr. Wappaeus figured. The method, however, would probably be the same, following the Nazis' pleasant little ways in Czechoslovakia and Poland. That is one reason why the United States cannot afford to lose this war.

WORLD AT A GLANCE . . .

WASHINGTON. — Pro-administration workers at the Capitol are worn to a frazzle by their efforts for legislation, greatly desired by President Roosevelt, before Jan. 1, when the present, seventy-seventh congress will be done with, and the recently elected, seventy-eighth batch of lawmakers will begin transacting business. The administrationists have been in a desperate race for the reason, of course, that they considered the present congress far likelier to comply with presidential wishes than they expect the incoming one to be.

Hence the fever of impatience for action before the current year's end.

Veritas, that is, what's legislated before the seventy-seventh's final adjournment, proves to be sufficiently distasteful to the seventy-eighth outfit, the latter can do any amount of repealing. However, the theory's been that what's done is harder to undo than having it on hand, undone, in the first place. Besides, if the seventy-eighth boys do indulge in a good bit of repealing, the president can reciprocate with a corresponding volume of vetoes, and passage of a congressional measure over a White

FIRST SKIRMISH ON PEACE

WASHINGTON — Backstage, the battle of the peace after the war, similar to the battle which took place over the League of Nations in 1920, is already getting underway. Republican isolationists very cleverly are now laying the groundwork for the fight they expect to wage after the war is over.

First skirmish in the fight is now taking place over the most beautiful woman ever to come to Congress, Clara Boothe Luce, author of "The Women," "Kiss the Boys Good-bye," "Margin for Error," and wife of the Time, Life and Fortune publisher.

Mrs. Luce, Republican representative-elect from Connecticut, aspires to sit on the House Foreign Affairs committee. An ardent interventionist, Mrs. Luce long advocated this country's entry into the war, has travelled all over the world, knows foreign affairs intimately.

However, Republican isolationists on the House Foreign Affairs committee do not welcome Mrs. Luce. On the Committee are such well-known isolationists as Ham Fish of New York, Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Mrs. Frances Bolton of Cleveland. They do not say that her anti-isolationism is the reason they don't want Mrs. Luce on the Committee. They put it on the ground that there are already two women members—Mrs. Bolton and Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts—and they don't want three.

Real reason, however, is that the fight over the peace treaty after the war already is starting, and Republican isolationists want to stack key committees with members who believe as they do. For in Congress, the committees dominate.

Note: Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee who favor Mrs. Luce include "Doc" Charles Eaton of New Jersey and Foster Stearns of New Hampshire, son of Frank Stearns, Boston merchant and intimate friend of Cal Coolidge.

WILLKIE'S DANCERS

Those who accompanied Wendell Willkie on his trip round the world are still kidding him about the oriental dance staged for his benefit in Baghdad.

When Willkie and his party arrived in this ancient Eastern city, one of his advisers, Gardner ("Mike") Cowles, associate publisher of the Des Moines Register-Tribune and of Look Magazine, inquired what there was to do in Baghdad. It is a city of picturesque oriental charm, and a history which goes back to the days before Christ. However, its possibilities for entertainment did not seem to be varied.

Someone told Cowles that one thing not to miss while visiting the city were the "Dancers of Baghdad."

Later, one of the local officials came to call on Mr. Willkie to inform him of the arrangements in his honor. This included a gala dinner, at which there were to be speeches, distinguished guests from the government, and all the cut and dried routine usually laid out for visiting dignitaries.

After this program was outlined, Will-

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

A chance meeting in the San Francisco fog leads to a spur-of-the-moment marriage in Reno by PAIGE SHELTON, whose sweetheart has just been killed fighting for the Allies, and RESTWICK (RUSTY) CARNES III, wealthy descendant of early Hawaiian settlers. Rusty marries to spite the girl he thinks he loves, EUGENIA NORTH, his selfish fiancée.

YESTERDAY: After he has told Paige that there has been a jewel robbery aboard their liner, Rusty suddenly asks her what is wrong.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

THE ROUGHNESS of Restwick Carnes' question made Paige say quickly, "There's nothing the matter with me except I just don't like trouble on board."

"You said that once."

"And I still say it."

"I like the excitement of it."

Paige observed in a tone that sounded as if she would prefer to slap him, "And you said that once."

"Okay! Okay!" Rusty said impatiently. "What puzzles me is why a $15,000 robbery should cause such a to-do?"

"Perhaps $15,000 means more to some people than to a Honolulu Carnes," the girl replied tartly.

"Hm! I notice Birdie's little wings are stronger," the man jeered, then added, "Pardon me if I don't faint beneath your sarcasm." All the same, color swept up to mingle with rusty-toned freckles. "I still claim there is being too much of a dither being made over some knick-knacks. But I suppose because they are in the service of their country, the federal investigators have to be called in."

He frowned. "And possibly because the Mazonian goes on to Australia—say, how would you like to go on to Australia?"

"No," said Paige shortly. "If they don't catch this thief, I mean. They might not, you know, by the time we reach Honolulu."

"I'm sure they will with your help," she said with sour sweetness.

Again color leaped into the man's face. "I'll start looking now." He began walking toward the outer door. "Your kind disposition is killing me."

"Please don't leave," Paige called quickly.

The knocking on the door banged out her words. Rusty opened it. In response to his invitation, the captain's first officer stepped inside and carefully closed the door.

After brisk, customary formalities, he stated, "The captain wishes to see Mrs. Carnes immediately."

Paige felt her legs weaken again when the chief officer repeated the captain's invitation, mainly because the term invitation did not describe the message. It was a command.

She knew it from the embarrassment of the ship's officer, also from Restwick Carnes' florid skin and narrowed eyes.

"What does he want?" Rusty demanded bluntly.

"It is a rather delicate matter. Please come with me, Mrs. Carnes. The captain will explain."

"But what does he want?" Restwick Carnes asked again.

"The captain will—"

"Will explain," Rusty finished rudely. "I heard you. You're right he will explain. The old fuddy-buddy."

Paige's white fingers on his arm stopped the tirade. "Be quiet, Rusty. I'll go see what the captain wants." She tightened the hold on her gray suede bag that had been under her arm all the time. "I'm a bit curious."

"So am I," said Rusty grimly. "I'll just tag along in case you trip or something."

There was such fury evident in Restwick Carnes' pounding footsteps as he and Paige trailed the ship's officer up the stairway that Paige could not help smiling a bit.

But when they entered the captain's reception room for waiting days' necessities that never again will it get back into its own again.

More Executive Power

Essentially what F. D. R. wants is much more executive dictatorial authority, at congress' expense and maybe at the judiciary's expense, also.

Now, there are New Dealers who favor a New Dealerish dictatorship, but there are others among 'em who're genuine democrats (small d), opposed to dictatorship on general principles. So there is that split, to begin with.

A big bloc of Democrats (big D) is anti-New Dealerish upon any terms.

It goes almost without saying that Republican dictatorial sentiment (with F. D. R. as dictator) isn't strong enough to be significant.

The administration, then, has had this miscellany to "rattle" with ever since we got into the war. It isn't exactly an opposition. It's an atmosphere.

"You know it? How do you know it?"

were merely a polite prelude to unpleasantness. She was glad when everyone was seated and the captain spoke, thereby relieving the suspense.

"Mrs. Carnes, this is a most painful duty. First, I must tell you that we have had the supreme misfortune of having had a robbery on board."

"Yes, I know it," nodded Paige. The captain's mouth dropped open. "You know it? How do you know it?"

The girl glanced from him to the equally astounded federal men and then to Rusty, who was giving her a look that made her realize her stupidity.

The captain repeated, "How did you know?"

"I didn't exactly know."

Her protective evasion did not please him. "You just said you did."

Her gray eyes regarded him openly. "I simply meant that I knew something had occurred. There has been so much chatter and commotion across from us and I saw these men board under rather unusual tactics—" Her voice faded into nothing.

Restwick Carnes inserted a clipped statement, "I told my wife there had been a robbery, Captain Berriman."

Instantly the red-haired man became the object of unfavorable attention. The ship's chief inquired acidly, "And how did you know?"

Restwick Carnes gave an explosive snort. "Let's just say I saw it in my crystal ball."

"You probably saw it in the crystal heads of some of those assinine bartenders," roared the captain.

Rusty ignored such spluttering fury to cast his mocking blue glance toward the rigidly disapproving investigators. "Where are the rest of your cohorts?"

One said, "They are busy checking other clues. I really wouldn't worry about them if I were you."

The second did not seem to notice Restwick Carnes. His attention was taken entirely by Restwick Carnes' wife, who was talking.

"I can understand your wanting to question us, but even though we are directly across from the Brazilians we know nothing about the robbery." Her hands rested quietly on the gray suede purse. Her eyes were clear and unvoiced.

But Captain Berriman's next words changed them. "We've an embarrassing request to make of you, Mrs. Carnes." He got up from his desk and walked to her side. Restwick Carnes also got up and moved to her. The captain continued, "We want to examine your gray purse."

"Simply want to examine her purse," Rusty mocked with an acid tongue. He began to yell again. "Examine her purse? Are you serious? Are you crazy? I'll fix you! You pompous old fuddy-buddy! I'll sue! I'll—"

"You'll shut up!" the captain thundered back. "I'm still law and order on my own ship and no one is going to shout at me." He stuck his knobby chin right up into the red-haired man's chest and raised his eyes to meet blue-eyes. "No sir! Not even you. Yah! Not even a sainted Carnes of Honolulu!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Food Prejudices Out of Place in Wartime

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE two kinds of food idiosyncrasy: one is that in which a food produces a skin eruption or other form of allergic attack; the other kind of food idiosyncrasy

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

about which I wish to speak in this article could better be called food prejudice.

There are very few of us who do not have some food prejudices. Usually these are not based on any reasonable experience, but often become inculcated in childhood because one parent or the other doesn't like a certain article of food.

Such prejudices or idiosyncrasies matter very little in ordinary times, but in wartime when a great many food articles are scarce, we should try, or perhaps we will be forced, to overcome these habits which keep us from utilizing as many valuable foods as possible.

I am not sure that I want to go as far as Dr. A. M. Reese who in saying that Americans have acquired "a lot of silly ideas" about what is fit for food and what is not, goes on to advocate the inclusion in the diet of lizards, snakes and alligators.

Indian Eating Habits

He points to the habit of many Indian tribes who eat reptiles and to the fact that nearly all primitive peoples eat the organs of animals even before they eat the flesh. David Fairchild, on a tour of the world, found that the inhabitants of Ceylon ate giant snails as large as man's fist and he himself learned to like them. Even the Hebrews, with all their taboos, liked to eat locusts and the modern Bushman looks on the eggs of termites with great favor.

As I say, I do not go as far as this but all of us neglect a number of foods which have good nutritive value. For instance, we all should eat some foods with vitamin C and the best of these are tomatoes and oranges. But they are both bulky and the time may come when they will be scarce on account of transportation. However, a good substitute, rich in vitamin C, is the black currant. Watercress is also a good source of vitamin C. It is possible to get synthetic vitamin C and add it to jellies, jams and fruit preserves. The Good Neighbor Policy would indicate that we should use more foods from South America and a number of these are quite unknown in the North American cuisine. They include mamey, sapadilla, ceriman, papaya, anona, soursop, star apple and guava.

Oysters Excellent Food

The nutritive value of fish is just as high as that of other meats except in the matter of iron. Oysters are an excellent food and Pease has calculated that the value of oysters is a little higher than that of cow's milk, owing to the high content of calcium, iron and all the vitamins.

Another highly nutritious food, rich in vitamins, is oatmeal. A good many adults have gotten out of the habit of eating oatmeal, but during the war they can get back in.

There seems to be little danger that in North America we are going to face anything that even faintly resembles starvation, but in order to be comfortable I am of the opinion that we are going to have to rearrange our food habits and forget about some of our food prejudices.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. C. C.: Is there always a cough with tuberculosis? Does it cause a pain in the chest and back? Does it cause pain when breathing?

Answer: There is not always a cough in tuberculosis. Tuberculosis is almost always painless in its onset.

Big Ten Weighs Plan To Use Frosh Athletes

BY H. C. WARREN

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The freshman eligibility rule took the center of the stage today at the Western Conference Winter meeting after a day of fruitless debate in informal conferences.

Some of the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives favored reverting to the practice during the first World War when freshmen were permitted to compete on varsity teams. Others advocated allowing freshmen, sophomores and juniors to compete, but barring seniors. The athletic chiefs were reluctant to make definite decisions on the 1943 wartime activities, preferring to postpone action on many problems until the situation was more clear.

They discussed yesterday about every sport on the collegiate calendar—swimming, gymnastics, fencing, golf, tennis, baseball, etc., with the general idea in mind of cutting game schedules and train travel and avoiding long trips.

Baseball for 1943 offered a pattern for the schedule makers to follow in other sports. The number of contests for each school was cut from 12 to 10 and the Big Ten was divided into an eastern and western division, with each school permitted to arrange one game in the other division.

As has been the custom for years, several championship meets were arranged for Chicago and Northwestern universities.

Three representatives of service schools were active at the meet.

BUCKEYE TANK STAR ASSIGNED FOUR AAU SPOTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Bill Smith, 18-year-old Hawaiian swimming sensation and now a freshman at Ohio State university, today held four places on the all-America swimming team chosen by a special A. A. U. committee.

The berths filled by the boy who last Summer broke three records in winning as many national championships are: 440 and 880 yards, at which he established a new world mark; 220 yards, where he broke the American record, and the 880 yard relay team.

Larry Johnson, chairman of the committee, classes this as the strongest of all-America men's swimming teams ever chosen.

Ranking behind Smith is Adolph Kiefer, who won the 1936 Olympic backstroke title, and has not been bested in his specialty in 8 years. Kiefer is named as top backstroke man, individual medley performer and choice for the relay.

Jim Counsilman, of Ohio State, outdoor and indoor breaststroke champ, has been selected for one individual and two relay spots, while Howard Johnson and Alan Ford, of Yale, were given two relay berths each.

LYONS COMMISSIONED

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Ted Lyons, veteran Chicago White Sox pitcher who enlisted in the U. S. Marine corps as a private last September, has received a commission, it was learned today. In a letter to Billy Webb, White Sox minor league farm chief, Lyons, who will be 42 years old December 28, said he would serve in the ground crew forces of the Marines' aviation branch. He did not say, however, what rank he had received.

TWO SEEKING PAROLES FROM OHIO REFORMATORY

Joe Von Boyd, 23, of Pomeroy, and Arthur Perone, 24, of Zanesville, both of whom were convicted last January of stealing corn from the Charles Cronley farm in Harrison township, are eligible for parole hearings February 1 at the Mansfield reformatory.

Von Boyd and Perone were arrested following investigation by the sheriff's department. Each was sentenced by Judge Meeke Terwilliger to serve one to 15 years for larceny.

ARLINGTON '5' 53-24 WINNER OVER CHS LADS

Golden Bears Have Little Trouble In Contest On Local Court

Circleville high Tiger cagers were "inadequate" Tuesday evening as the Red and Black five fell 53-24 before a crew of sharp-shooting Upper Arlington Golden Bears. The game was played in the C. A. C. gym before a fairly large crowd.

Arlington used 10 boys and each combination tried by Coach Dick Larkin proved as successful as the other. His lads stressed a one hand jump shot that was too tough for the inexperienced Tigers to combat.

The Red and Black put up a fight, mostly in the second half when Coach Roy Black used several freshmen in his quintet. Leon Sims, who also led the local scorers, put a lot of fight into the team despite the fact that he had played a greater part of the reserve game.

The Arlington boys scored a 10-1 lead in the first period and stretched it to 24 to 5 at halftime. Third quarter ended 44-15 and each team tallied nine points in the last period.

D. Siebert and Lovett each with 14 points led the winners. Sims counted seven for his team.

The Circleville reserves dropped their encounter, also, coming out on the short end of a 36-19 score. Sims also led the local scorers in this game with seven points.

Circleville, defeated three times so far this season, goes to London Friday night.

SINKWICH GIVEN HEISMAN TROPHY FOR 1942'S BEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The Marines have the situation well in hand today as far as the annual John W. Heisman memorial trophy for the season's outstanding football player is concerned.

Both the winner, Georgia's touchdown king, Frankie Sinkwich, and the runner-up, Columbia's one-man football team, Paul Governali, were wearing uniforms of the U. S. Marines.

Sinkwich, who won the trophy with the largest vote on record—1059 to 218 cast for Governali—received the award emblematically last night in the form of a scroll. Because of the vital need of metals, he will not receive the bronze statue until after peace comes.

Big Ten Weighs Plan To Use Frosh Athletes

BY H. C. WARREN

CHICAGO, Dec. 9—The freshman eligibility rule took the center of the stage today at the Western Conference Winter meeting after a day of fruitless debate in informal conferences.

Some of the Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives favored reverting to the practice during the first World War when freshmen were permitted to compete on varsity teams. Others advocated allowing freshmen, sophomores and juniors to compete, but barring seniors.

The athletic chiefs were reluctant to make definite decisions on the 1943 wartime activities, preferring to postpone action on many problems until the situation was more clear.

They discussed yesterday about every sport on the collegiate calendar—swimming, gymnastics, fencing, golf, tennis, baseball, etc., with the general idea in mind of cutting game schedules and train travel and avoiding long trips.

Baseball for 1943 offered a pattern for the schedule makers to follow in other sports. The number of contests for each school was cut from 12 to 10 and the Big Ten was divided into an eastern and western division, with each school permitted to arrange one game in the other division.

As has been the custom for years, several championship meets were arranged for Chicago and Northwestern universities.

Three representatives of service schools were active at the meeting, seeking games with Big Ten schools in sports in which the institutions will engage.

They were Lieut. Col. Bernie W. Bierman, director of athletics and football coach at the Iowa Naval pre-flight school; Lieut. Commander J. Russell Cook, athletic officer at Great Lakes naval training station, and Lieut. Tony Hinkle, football and basketball coach at Great Lakes.

All conference football teams will be limited to a maximum of six Big Ten games next season and the athletic directors expressed complete willingness to play the service teams again outside their conference schedule.

BEAR, REDSKIN PRO TITLE TILT TO BE TOUGHIE

BY LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—The bitterest and what may be the roughest and toughest football game of this season will take place on Sunday afternoon at Washington, when the Chicago Bears meet the Redskins for the national professional championship. The Bears have been manhandling opponents all season, according to the anguished howls of some rival coaches, and it may develop now that they were merely practicing mayhem on those others in order to do a good job on the club that was subdued by 73 to 0 when last encountered in the playoff.

Ever since that debacle at Washington two years ago, the two clubs have let their grudge grow into a beautiful thing, if you don't mind a little blood, but a thing that has its elements of sportsmanship, too. A Bear never kicks a Redskin until he is sure the Redskin is down, and vice versa.

In this forthcoming encore of the feud, the Bears are such favorites that the Redskins wouldn't be given better than an outside chance even if they went into the engagement armed with tomahawks.

SINKWICH GIVEN HEISMAN TROPHY FOR 1942'S BEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—The Marines have the situation well in hand today as far as the annual John W. Heisman memorial trophy for the season's outstanding football player is concerned. Both the winner, Georgia's touchdown king, Frankie Sinkwich, and the runner-up, Columbia's one-man football team, Paul Gornall, were wearing uniforms of the U. S. Marines.

Sinkwich, who won the trophy with the largest vote on record—1059 to 218 cast for Gornall—received the award emblematically last night in the form of a scroll. Because of the vital need of metals, he will not receive the bronze statue until after peace comes.

SHAW TOPS OSU CAGERS IN TILT WITH WESLEYAN

COLUMBUS, Dec. 9—Big Bob Shaw, Ohio State's all-American football end, tossed 19 points through the hoop Tuesday night to lead the Buckeye cage team to a 41-29 victory over Ohio Wesleyan.

Shaw, playing center, carried some of his football tactics along with him, but he soon started to hit the hoop to help overcome the Bishop crew. Jack Buttermore, Massillon youth, was the Wesleyan star.

Other gridders were in the Buckeye lineup including Gene Fekete, Ken Elchwald, Jack Dugger and others.

IRISH HONOR FILLEY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 9—Patrick Joseph Filley, junior left guard, today became the first South Bend player to captain the Notre Dame football team since Howard Edwards led the Irish in 1909. Filley was named captain of the 1943 squad at a testimonial dinner honoring the 1942 team.

TWO SEEKING PAROLES FROM OHIO REFORMATORY

Joe Von Boyd, 23, of Pomeroy, and Arthur Perone, 24, of Zanesville, both of whom were convicted last January of stealing corn from the Charles Cromley farm in Harrison township, are eligible for parole hearings February 1 at the Mansfield reformatory.

Von Boyd and Perone were arrested following investigation by the sheriff's department. Each was sentenced by Judge Meeker Terwilliger to serve one to 15 years for larceny.

ARLINGTON '5' 53-24 WINNER OVER CHS LADS

Golden Bears Have Little Trouble In Contest On Local Court

Circleville high Tiger cagers were "inadequate" Tuesday evening as the Red and Black five fell 53-24 before a crew of sharp-shooting Upper Arlington Golden Bears. The game was played in the C. A. C. gym before a fairly large crowd.

Arlington used 10 boys and each combination tried by Coach Dick Larkin proved as successful as the other. His lads stressed a one hand jump shot that was too tough for the inexperienced Tigers to combat.

The Red and Black put up a fight, mostly in the second half when Coach Roy Black used several freshmen in his quintet. Leon Sims, who also led the local scorers, put a lot of fight into the team despite the fact that he had played a greater part of the reserve game.

The Arlington boys scored a 10-1 lead in the first period and stretched it to 24 to 5 at halftime. Third quarter ended 44-15 and each team tallied nine points in the last period.

D. Siebert and Lovett each with 14 points led the winners. Sims counted seven for his team.

The Circleville reserves dropped their encounter, also, coming out on the short end of a 36-19 score. Sims also led the local scorers in this game with seven points.

Circleville, defeated three times so far this season, goes to London Friday night.

Ring Crown On Block For One Of Many Pugs

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—The lightweight fighters of America today were faced with equal opportunities and an open, fighting road to the lightweight title of the world.

This title, which has kicked around like a lost pawn ticket, was declared open to the highest bidder yesterday when President Abe Greene of the National Boxing association declared his board would not recognize the December 18 bout between Tippy Larkin, Garfield, N. J., and Beau Jack, Augusta, Ga., as a lightweight championship affair.

STATE LEADERS OUTLINE COUNTY DEFENSE PLAN

Pickaway Council To Act
As Coordinating Agency
For All Units

PROBLEMS ARE WEIGHED

Dr. Herschel Nisonger and
Ray J. Lewis Address
Local Assembly

Coordination of Defense Councils in Pickaway county for the purpose of providing more certain protection for the district in the event of a war emergency was the theme of a county-wide assembly held Tuesday evening at Memorial Hall. Dr. Herschel Nisonger, chief of the bureau of education of OGD, and Ray J. Lewis, field representative of the state Defense Council, were present at the session and outlined the county program.

Within the next week a complete Pickaway County Council of Defense is to be organized and will include representatives of each township and each of the communities in which councils have been organized. This organization meeting will be called by the board of county commissioners.

The state representatives told the assembly Tuesday evening that the army is not particularly interested in blacking out lights in farm homes during emergencies, but is insistent that light patterns of towns, villages and grouped houses be eliminated as light patterns provide perfect guides for night-time aviators.

Necessity for a well trained county-wide police organization was particularly stressed, the chief duty of the group being to handle traffic in the event of emergency.

The meeting dealt entirely with organization detail and consideration of problems confronting various defense groups in the county. The visiting OGD representatives praised work already done in the various county communities and urged continuation of effort toward perfection.

Plans are being made for a state-wide blackout shortly after the first of the new year.

WILLIAMSPORT BOY HAD ROLE IN AFRICAN DRIVE

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter of Williamsport Route 2 have received word from their son, Private First Class Edward Carter, that he is well after participating in American invasion action in North Africa. No information concerning the action was given although the youth wrote that he would have plenty to tell when he returned home. He entered service January 16, 1942, receiving initial training at Camp Wolters, Texas. He later was assigned to Ranger training in North Carolina.

The Carters hadn't heard from him for two months.

Ralph Carter, another son, is in action with the navy in the southwest Pacific being stationed on a destroyer as a gunner's mate first class. His destroyer, his parents have been informed, participated in the sea fight which saw the end of the aircraft carrier Wasp. No word has been received from him for six weeks.

E. C. MAHAFFEY NAMED OEA MEET ALTERNATE

E. C. Mahaffey, Ashville high school faculty member, was named second alternate Wednesday to attend the Ohio Education association convention December 30 and 31 in Columbus. Mr. Mahaffey was named when votes were cast by the South Bloomfield school, this being the last one to report.

Other alternate is Pielgord Hansen of Jackson township, with Carl Bennett of Walnut township and Harold Costlow of New Holland being named delegates.

Each school is asked by the county office to make a nominee. Some made their choices, but others did not select members of their staffs for the convention delegate balloting.

ALERT NEIGHBOR, SNOW CUT DOWN LOSS FROM FIRE

A neighbor's alertness and the fact that snow covered the roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Beal on the C. A. Weldon farm in Pickaway township saved the Logan Elm road property from probable destruction at 6:40 a. m. Wednesday when flames broke out.

The fire started on the shingle roof from sparks thrown from the chimney. Snow slowed down the blaze's headway, permitting Fire Chief Palmer Wise time enough to throw enough water on the home to stop the flames.

The Beal family had kindled the fire with cobs and members of the household had started to do their morning chores. Miss Alda Bartley, who lives nearby, saw fire on the roof and telephoned the Beal residence. Mr. Beal called the fire department for aid and the rural truck was speeded there.

Chief Wise said that a hole about four feet square was burned in the roof. There was also a little water damage, the entire loss being estimated at about $50.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO- ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

He was asked, "And what would you like for entertainment?"

"What about the 'Dancers of Baghdad'?" suggested Mike Cowles.

"Yes," said Willkie, "what about these dancers I've been hearing about?"

In Baghdad, the officials of Iraq aim to please, especially when anyone so important as a near-president of the United States visits them. So, after a long, stately, and rather dull dinner, Mr. Cowles, who sat beside the wife of the British Minister, was a bit surprised to hear the announcement:

"We now present the 'Dancers of Baghdad,' at the request of Mr. Gardner Cowles, Jr."

The wife of the British Minister immediately turned a disapproving back. During the entire performance, she continued a conversation with Mr. Cowles—on archaeology.

Mr. Cowles is not an archaeologist. But he listened politely with little opportunity to watch the "Dancers of Baghdad," whose performance he had inspired.

ARMY MASCOTS
Mascots are popular in the armed services. Dogs are most common, but some units have adopted cats, eagles, goats, mules, horses, prairie dogs, and even kangaroo rats.

In fact on the morning report of the 355th Infantry, Camp Carlson, Colorado, appears the name of a certain sergeant who has never received a cent of pay since he joined the Army, yet he is one of the happiest and best liked members of the outfit.

The "sergeant" in this case is a white fox terrier, a company mascot. He was in good standing until recently, wore his chevrons proudly on his khaki jacket.

But one night he left the camp AWOL to chase prairie dogs and did not return in time for reveille. Like any other soldier, he had to pay the penalty for misconduct. In a solemn ceremony, attended by officers, he was "broken," his stripes were taken away, and the warrant was signed by the colonel.

NIGHT CLUB FIRE
At his meeting with the "Big Four" congressional leaders after the Boston night club fire, the President expressed his heartfelt sympathy to House Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts, whose niece, Mary Ellen McCormack, was among the hundreds who perished.

"My heart goes out to all the relatives of the victims of this terrible disaster," the President said.

While he was discussing the fire, his son, Lt. Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., who recently returned from active duty as a gunnery officer at Casablanca, came in and shook hands with McCormack, Vice President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn and State Majority Leader Alben Barkley.

Franklin Jr. said he had been to Coconut Grove several times while he was a student at Harvard.

Heiskell and Fred Nicholas have been instructed by Judge Meeker Terwilliger to draw names of 15 Pickaway county jurors for January term grand jury duty and 35 others for petit jury service. STATE LEADERS OUTLINE COUNTY DEFENSE PLAN

As Coordinating Agency
For All Units

PROBLEMS ARE WEIGHED

Dr. Herschel Nisonger And
Ray J. Lewis Address
Local Assembly

Coordination of Defense Councils in Pickaway county for the purpose of providing more certain protection for the district in the event of a war emergency was the theme of a county-wide assembly held Tuesday evening at Memorial Hall. Dr. Herschel Nisonger, chief of the bureau of education of OGD, and Ray J. Lewis, field representative of the state Defense Council, were present at the session and outlined the county program.

Within the next week a complete Pickaway County Council of Defense is to be organized and will include representatives of each township and each of the communities in which councils have been organized. This organization meeting will be called by the board of county commissioners.

The state representatives told the assembly Tuesday evening that the army is not particularly interested in blacking out lights in farm homes during emergencies, but is insistent that light patterns of towns, villages and grouped houses be eliminated as light patterns provide perfect guideposts for night-time aviators.

Necessity for a well trained county-wide police organization was particularly stressed, the chief duty of the group being to handle traffic in the event of emergency.

The meeting dealt entirely with organization detail and consideration of problems confronting various defense groups in the county. The visiting OGD representatives praised work already done in the various county communities and urged continuation of effort toward perfection.

Plans are being made for a state-wide blackout shortly after the first of the new year.

WILLIAMSPORT BOY HAD ROLE IN AFRICAN DRIVE

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter of Williamsport Route 2 have received word from their son, Private First Class Edward Carter, that he is well after participating in American invasion action in North Africa. No information concerning the action was given although the youth wrote that he would have plenty to tell when he returned home. He entered service January 16, 1942, receiving initial training at Camp Wolters, Texas. He later was assigned to Ranger training in North Carolina.

The Carters hadn't heard from him for two months.

Ralph Carter, another son, is in action with the navy in the southwest Pacific being stationed on a destroyer as a gunner's mate first class. His destroyer, his parents have been informed, participated in the sea fight which saw the end of the aircraft carrier Wasp. No word has been received from him for six weeks.

E. C. MAHAFFEY NAMED OEA MEET ALTERNATE

E. C. Mahaffey, Ashville high school faculty member, was named second alternate Wednesday to attend the Ohio Education association convention December 30 and 31 in Columbus. Mr. Mahaffey was named when votes were cast by the South Bloomfield school, this being the last one to report.

Other alternate is Pielgord Hansen of Jackson township, with Carl Bennett of Walnut township and Harold Costlow of New Holland being named delegates.

Each school is asked by the county office to make a nominee. Some made their choices, but others did not select members of their staffs for the convention delegate balloting.
